DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action is in response to the amendment filed April 6, 2004 for the above identified patent application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hull (US Patent 4,580,006) in view of Onodera (US Patent 6,366,442).

Referring to Figure 3, Hull illustrates an operating device comprising: a case (24); and a substantially dome-shaped knob (22) protruding from the case, the knob having a central hole/recess corresponding to an operator's palm (see Fig. 2) and a plurality of holes/recesses corresponding to the operator's fingers. The prior art to Hull does not disclose the operating device being used for controlling a transmission, however it was well known in the art to use such an operating device as claimed. For example, the prior art to Onodera clearly teaches using an operating device (11) for controlling a vehicle transmission. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the operating device of Hull for controlling a transmission, as taught by Onodera, motivation being to provide a device which corresponds to an operator's hand for controlling a transmission.

In the event applicant argues that Hull illustrates the central recess corresponding to an operator's palm is not a hole because it does not extend through the knob, an alternative rejection is given below.

Onodera teaches forming a central hole formed in a shifter knob (3) being covered by a window (31) for controlling the operation of the shifter. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the knob of Hull with a central hole corresponding to an operator's palm, as taught by Onodera, motivation being to provide control means for permitting operation of the shift device.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 13-15 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
